DRAGON HEAD

Download all the tutorial files to your iPad. Go to your Files App and look for the zip file you just downloaded. Tap on the zip icon and it will create a new blue folder with the same name. Inside this folder, you'll find the tutorial PDF, the sketch file (.procreate format), and the swatch palette.

Since both of those files are native to Procreate, just tap on those files and they should import automatically into Procreate. You'll find the imported swatch palette in your Color Panel > Palettes.

Go to the gallery to find the new project. Lower the opacity of the sketch layer and set it to Multiply layer mode. Then lock the layer.

Turn on the Drawing Guide. Go to Actions > Canvas > enable Drawing Guide. Tap on Edit Drawing Guide > Symmetry > Options > Vertical.

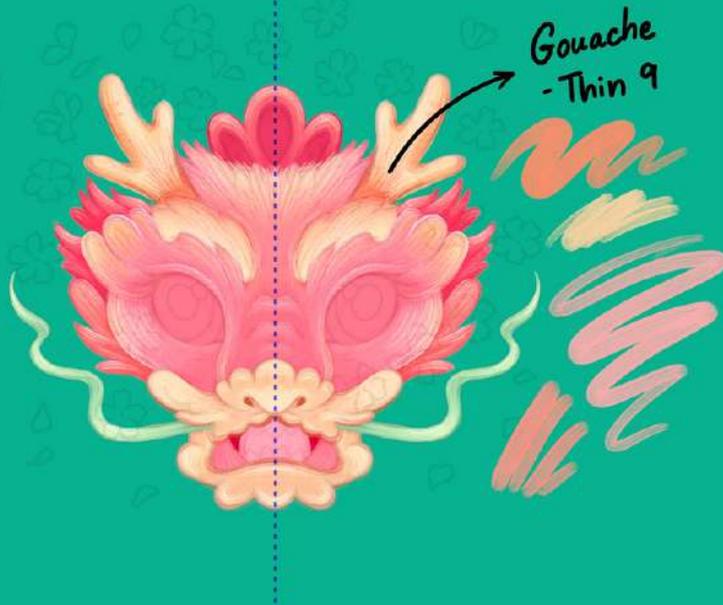

Step 1:

Add a new layer underneath the sketch layer. Using Gouache Thin No. 5, add the base colors for the Dragon's head.

I would suggest creating a different layer for each different colored part of the face. Just remember to enable Drawing Assist for each new layer you create.

Step 2

Turn on 'Drawing Guide'
> Symmetry > Vertical

Step 2: Add a clipping mask layer on top of each base layer. Enable Drawing Assist for each layer too.

This time, using the Gouache Thin No. 9 brush, add some fine detail and texture to the base layers.

Step 3

Step 3: Continue adding details with the Freya Gouache Thin No. 6 brush. Adding strokes of lighter colors give it a brushed look.

Add a new layer for the flowers. Use the same Freya Gouache Thin No. 6 brush to draw the flowers. Add variation, draw some of the flowers facing side ways others front facing.

Step 4

Step 4: For the eyes, add another layer underneath the base layers. Draw the eyes using Gouache Thin No. 6 and Gouache Thin No. 9.

Add another layer underneath and create a soft gradient circle for the background. Then create a new layer, place it on top of all the layers and swipe on Gouache Paper No. 5 brush in a light grey color. Set this texture layer to Linear Burn mode.
